Subject: Extremely disappointed with impunity granted Microsoft

The recent rulings concerning Microsoft did not seem to indicate justice is going to be done. This company does not operate by the normal rules of competition. It does whatever it likes...and we computer users are (increasingly) the poorer for it. Its increasing license charges reflect its monopolistic status. Many innovative competitors have been forced from the scene by its monopolistic status.

As far as I am concerned...you have not done your job!

Sincerely,

Maurice Bauhahn (US citizen)
